

I HEARD THE VOICE OF JESUS SAY

A series by Andrea Kidd

#4...: "I am the way..." - John 14:6

A Fork in the Road

I know what to do. This small part is clear to me. I am responsible for this. The onus is upon me to do this one thing I do know and I am certain of.

I keep weighing the matter and wonder if it is my will, or silly thoughts, and I keep coming back in my mind to the certainty that it is God's will that I do this.

I am certain it has come from outside of me, not inside. I know this is good to do, very good, and it is within my reach to do it. The idea is not mine. It is a "God" thing.

I don't really want to do it. The enemy of my soul does not want me to do it. He is the enemy of life. He prefers confusion, indecision, hopelessness.

This is a deciding moment. Am I for God or against Him? Will I allow Him into my being or will I choose to cut myself off from Him, His righteousness, His love, His goodness?

This is such a small decision, just a little fork in the road. Shall I go this way or that? Yet this little decision sets the direction for many more decisions, decisions following naturally from the first decision at that fork, decisions taking me further and further down the path I choose, decisions meaning that turning back seems pointless or just too far to turn back now.

Now is the time to decide.

Now is the best time.

Now is the right time.

Now, before it is too late and the opportunity is lost forever.

My footsteps along this path give assurance, excitement that "this is it!"

Yes, the decision was hard to make, but the knowledge that this was right and good has brought a flood of joy, peace and...FREEDOM!
